begin their second week in the drive to obtain sufficient funds to keep human suffering down to a minimum next year.

Leaders in Atlanta were especially encouraged after listening to the appeal made over radio Sunday night by Franklin D. Roosevelt, democratic candidate for president, who delivered a non-political address from Groton, Mass., in which he pointed out that America and the rest of the world are in the fourth year of the depression, and called upon the people for a "redoubled, heroic" effort to prevent suffering.

sion, and called upon the people for a "redoubled, heroic" effort to prevent suffering.

After the initial week's canvass of the city, which produced an unexpected response from thousands of persons who gave notwithstanding the stringency of the times, leaders in the Chest campaign said that approximately two-thirds of the $500,000 is definitely in sight, citing this as indicative of early success. At the close of books Saturday it was found that $188,396 had been obtained, and today additional reports are expected to bring this beyond the $200,000 mark.

Workers Not To Relax.

No let-up will be made in the canvass of the city, it was said by Chest officials, and today the 1,500 workers will resume their effort swith the enthusiasm and spirit that marked their first day's activities when the campaign was launched last Monday. In paign was launched last Monday. In-dividual workers will seek individual contributions; groups will visit busi-ness houses and offices, and others will check over lists to determine just who has not yet been reached in the current campaign.

According to Frank H. Neely, pres-ident of the Chest's 1933 drive, At-lantans thus far have responded nobly to the appeals being made to them in end.

Bird Cites Obligation.

"The obligation to share rests more heavily upon us," Mr. Bird said, "than ever before. Atlanta must not approach the danger point of falling short. We urge every worker and every person with a job or an income to aid us in this 1933 drive. From all appearances this will be the crucial period in the Community Chest movement, and it must be met as preceding campaigns have been met —with success."

Witches, Goblins Cavort Tonight As Atlanta Celebrates Halloween

Atlantaus young and old are planning to celebrate Halloween tonight with merry-making, noise, parties and practical jokes. On the ecclesiastical calendar it will be the eve of All Saints' Day, but to the secular world it will be just Halloween.

If Atlanta follows its usual preactibed manner of publicly observing the occasion, a large portion of those celebrating will simply put on all sorts of false faces and costumes and walk about aimlessly in the downtown sections, yelling and blowing paper snakes in other people's faces, or throwing talcum powder and confettion of public observance is usually snakes in other people's faces, or throwing talcum powder and confetti on other people's clothes.

A slight variation of the Atlanta form of public observance is usually carried out by those who own automobiles. This class of celebrant, instead of strolling along the sidewalks, rides along slowly in the downtown section, advancing his gasoline accelerator and retarding his spark every few feet, producing a back fire that sounds like the discharge of a double-barreled shotgun.

Allessandri's Election

Held Certain in Chile

By the Associated Press.

Three South and Central American nations held national elections yesterday.

In Chile former President Arturo Alessandri, candidate of the center parties, appeared to be the victor, reports showing that he was receiving about 60 per cent of the votes.

In Ecuador, where the voting will be completed today, there were numerous disorders, calling for police actions.

Some persons were injured in Guaya-could. Martinez Mera, liberal candidate, was leading in incomplete returns.

In Honduras there were no disorders. No reports on how the voting was going were available.

Constitution's Special Edition Will Benefit Police, Firemen

A special edition of The Constitution will be printed on November 20 in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Atlanta fire department and in recognition as well of the viluable public service given for many years by the Atlanta police department. Liberal space will be devoted to news and pictorial reviews of the two departments.

A position of the adverti ing receipts will be given by The Constitution to the benefit funds which go to the families of firemen and policemen injured in protecting the lives and property of the citizens of Atlanta. The Constitution is happy to act as a medium in this cause.

Beginning next Tuesday morning firemen and policemen will, in their off hours, work as Constitution advertising solicitors, receiving from the paper a percentage on each advertisement they obtain.

TO MEET TUESDA'

Directors of National Association Hold Preliminary Session Tonight.

Leaders in the fertilizer industry from every section of the south, and from other parts of the country, Sunday were gathering in Atlanta for the Eighth Annual Southern Convention of the national Fertilizer Association. There will be a meting of the board of directors tonight. The convention proper will begin Tuesday morning and last through Wednesday. "The executives of the fertilizer industry fully realize the seriousness of the problems that confront southern farmers in this second year of extremely low cotton prices." said Charles J. Brand. executive secretary and treasurer of the association, Sunday.

Funeral services are to be conducted in similar ratio. As a result, yields have been low and obality continue. half of the average of the years 1925, 1929 and 1830. Likewise, only 9,000000 acres of cotton were fertilized in 1932 as compared to 18,000,000 acres fertilized in 1930. Undoubterly the use of fertilizer on other crops has declined, in similar ratio. As a result, yields have been low and quality, in many cases, impaired. Moreover, continued low fertilization can only mean a further decline both in yield and quality and an increase in the cost of producing each pound of lint.

"In order to meet the new conditions, the cost of manufacturing and distributing fertilizer has been cut to the bone." says Mr. Brand, "and mixed fertilizer today is selling at wholesale at only 75 per cent of the prewar price and at only 69 per cent of the 1926-28 price. Under any ordinary conditions such a decline in prices would stimulate safes. The whole trouble is that cotton; is selling at less than 50 per cent of the prewar, while the average of all commodities bought by farmers is 106 per cent of prewar, while the average of all commodities bought by farmers is 106 per cent of prewar. Farm taxes are 266 per cent of the 1910-14 level.

"Such condition is a challenge to our farm leadership and to the leadership of our own and other industries that are entirely dependent on and in reality, a part of agriculture."

DIES IN LOUISVILLE, KY.

Master Mechanic of Railroad Widely Known in Religious Circles Here.

William Patrick McDevitt, master mechanic of the Kentucky & Indiana railroad and prominent in Atlanta Catholic circles, died Sunday morning in Louisville, Ky., of pneumonia. Mr. McDevitt, who was 55 years of age, had been in failing health for the last two years but had been seriously ill only since last Thursday.

A native of Atlanta, Mr. McDevitt resided here for more than 27 years. He had been connected with the Southern for 43 years and since 1915 had resided in Louisville but had maintained a residence here at 822 Mentelle drive.

During his residence here, he was extremely active in the work of the Immaculate Conception church, of which he was one of the first members. He also was a member of the Knights of Columbus and of several railroad fraternities and organizations. The body will be brought to Atlanta for funeral services Wednesday morning at the Immaculate Conception church, and interment will take place in West View cemetery, with Sam R. Condition of Clarke

Is Reported Critical

Physicians at the Rutherford County hospital in Murfreesboro, Tenn., reported Sunday night that Reverdy E. Clarke, son of Christian H. Clarke. In manager of the H. G. Hastings retail store here, was in a critical condition, but that hope was held for his recovery. Young Clarke and three other Atlantans were injured Saturday afternoon near Murfreesboro when their car was forced from the road by another machine while they were enjoured to Nashville for the Georgia Tech-Vanderbilt University football game.

Clarke's companions were J. W. "Duck" McKee, former Georgia Tech atlatet and Atlanta baseball player: W. P. Crenshaw, of the Holland Furnace Company, with which company Clarke is also connected here; and Ned Mason, senior at Georgia Tech They were only slightly hurt. Clarke suffered a fractured skull and other injuries when the car overturned after being sideswiped by a machine which failed to stop after the accident.

CERTAIN TO WIN

In a five-minute prelude to the reg-ular Bible lesson at Keith's Georgia theater Sunday morning, Mayor James L. Key told his interdenominational Bible class that Franklin D. Roosevelt faced certain victory in his cam-paign for the presidency of the United States States.

Mayor Key said he spent two days with the democratic nominee during his visit to Georgia last week and discovered two secrets of Governor Roosevelt's life which make him the greatest man, in America today and the sunqualified choice of the masses as a leader.

the sunqualified choice of the masses as a leader.

"I was amazed," said Mayor Key,
"to see Governor Roosevelt leave the thousands who had assembled at Warm Springs last Sunday and go into seclusion with a mere handful of fellow-sufferers, patients of the Warm Springs Foundation, and make them a speech as if he were talking to millions of prospective voters on a national radio hook-up. That is one of the simple traits that make him the choice of the suffering masses. The other secret of his leadership is his bountiful sympathies and understanding of the human race in general."

MEMBERSHIP SOUGHT BY RESERVE OFFICERS

Georgia Department Plans Drive To Increase Roster to 1,500.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 30.-(A)-Plans

MACON, Ga., Oct. 30.—(P)—Plans for increasing the membership of the Georgia department of the Reserve Officers' Association to 1,590 by January were made at a meeting of the department council here today. Captain Clark Hungerford, of Macon, was placed in charge of the membership campaign throughout the state.

Georgia ranked second among the states in 1932 in the percentage of its reserve officers who belong to the association, it was announced by Colonel Joe F. Muldrow, of Milledgeville, president of the Georgia department. There are about 900 members of the association in the state and about 2,500 reserve officers, it was said.

Principal speaker of the council meeting, which began in the Hotel Dempsey at 11 o'clock Sunday morning and lasted until 4 o'clock this afternoon, was Major General Edward L. King, Atlanta, commander of the fourth corps area.

General King's topic was the responsibility of the reserve corps in the plan of national defense. He showed how the reserve officers fit into the defense organization and into the defense organization and stressed the importance of the training of young officers who will replace those old enough for retirement.

Colonel S. Field Dallam, reserve corps liaison officer, fourth corps area headquarters, Atlanta, spoke on the powers and responsibilities of reserve officers. Lieutenant Colonel George L. Blossom, Macon, discussed the responsibility of the reserve officers in "these times of unrest."

The council adopted a resolution of appreciation for Representative Ho-

FIGHTING THE THIRD DEGREE.

Discussion of possible ways in which effective steps can be taken owards the abolition of the "pernicious third-degree system," still being more or less secretly and generally used by the police forces f the country, is contained in the current issue of the News Bulletin of the National Society of Penal Inormation, Inc., of New York. This organization of outstanding

New York citizens and social workers, in commenting on the release of the police officials responsible for the brutal treatment of a prisoner who died in the Nassau county fail, takes the position that "the death of Hyman Stark while in custody of the police, although he was doubtless a menace to society and guilty of a most serious offense. cannot be too harshly condemned." It was testified at the trial of the iccused officers that a 200-pound oliceman stood upon the prostrate Stark, with one foot upon his neck and the other on his stomach, and "rocked" back and forth. Stark died from injuries to his throat.

Police brutality is never justified. Lawless enforcement of the law cannot help but result in breaking down respect for all law. There can be no justification under any circumstances for the use of illegal methods in forcing confessions to obtain convictions. Certainly, the police must not tions. Certainly the police must not be permitted to use means so illegal that they cannot be used openly in our courts of justice.

The Wickersham commission after an exhaustive investigation of this evil, issued a report of more tried to make the story more impressive by adding and super-adding.

Yet, behind the maze of uncertainty and doubt one feels a power. Yes, forcement agencies, pointing out at necessary to resort to such methods to obtain convictions.

It will be recalled that a New York man arrested on suspicion during the search for the Lind-bergh kidnapers insisted upon a physical examination before being taken to New Jersey as a possible cross. The inhumanity and injustice of the third degree is emphasized in the report of the law enforcement outstanding loans to their policy committee of the American Bar Association, which holds that "the third degree is obnoxious because It is not surprising that in view it is secret; because the prisoner is "the long record of faithful per- because there is no limit to the pressure, that may be put upon the prisoner."

It takes no courage to denounce a book of this sort. The overgreat majority of people will be with the denouncer as by instinct. Any shoemaker who feels himself called by the Spirit to go and preach, and who does start to preach after attending a Bible college for a few months, can demolish a scholarly work of this kind in half an hour. It involves no risk, and merely requires a voice of thunder.

Nevertheless, I feel that some of the expressions attributed to Jesus in the New Testament bear an unmistakable stamp of genuineness. They could not have been invented. Certain simple words and acts recorded there are those of a man, of a very human individual. Take for instance some of the words of despair and terrible pathos in the garden of Gethsemane, You can almost hear the panting of that hunted and hounded fugitive across the centuries. There was no escape. Some men have a very definite feeling at the approach of fate. Jesus was one of them. His soul was as sensitive as a finely attuned instrument. He felt destiny bearing down on Him. His friends had deserted Him one by one. It was a night of disilsion, devastating and fatal. And then take that last cry from

The Useless Dog That Kills Sheep Could Have Been Trained To Lead the Blind -By Robert Quillen -

As you read about the problems that distress our civilization, do you reflect in hopeless resignation that none but supermen could solve them? If so, you are mistaken. The solution is so simple that the dullest can comprehend it. In fact, it is so elementary and so obvious that its very simplicity prevents its adoption. An age awed by the mys-teries of science has little respect for things it can understand. Experience has shown that adult instructors can shape the beliefs and

Text of Roosevelt Address.

The address by Governor Roosevelt, as picked up by Atlanta listeners Sunday night, was as follows:

"We are in the fourth year of the "We are in the fourth year of the depression; we are now entering upon the fourth winter since the signs of the break manifested themselves. In the course of this depression the resources of our private charitable agencies have been sadly taxed and public resources likewise have felt the pinch of increasing needs coupled with decreasing sources of revenue.
"It is a time for redoubled, yes, heroic measures to save, not only for the immediate future, but for generations to come, the human values of our bear tragic consequences for genera-tions to come.

"It has not been easy to build up advances in our social life. We must preserve the victories won in our bat-tles against disease, in our develop-ment of education, in our work for better character. The danger is that these may be impaired in the genera-tions growing into manhood. This danger constitutes a great national problem.

Consider it this way. Consider a child who entered this depression at the age of nine. The first year the family savings are being eaten into, the impressionable mind grew in the midst of the worry and fear that beset his parents. In the second year, the poverty in which his family was living resulted not only in a reduced amount of food, but in the wrong skind of food. "In the third year he continues in school, and public authorities helped to feed him. About all he got to eat was what the school gave him, and he attempted to take from rations something for those at home.

"Finally in the fourth year his parents are unable to continue him at school and he must go forth to get what small return he can in casual employment. Desperation has arrived, and every member of the family is seeking to contribute something to keep body and soul together.

Scars Upon Nation. "Consider the effect morally and physically of this experience through which a boy has passed in the formative years of his life. Nothing that he ever does or thinks or says can help but be affected by this vivid experience. The depression has left upon him deep sears. And, my friends, the scars that were made upon him are made upon the nation.

Smart Comedy, 'The Vinegar Tree,' Presented Tonight at the Erlanger

One of the wittiest, most delightful stage comedies of recent years will be presented tonight at the Erlanger theater. It is "The Vinegar Tree" and Atlantans will see a production by the Atlantan Permanent Players, notable for the perfection of its stage settings and the remarkable performance of Doris Packer in the central role of "Lora," as well as for the unusual brilliance of the play itself.

This comedy in three acts by Dwight Decre Wilman served as a starring vehicle last season for Mary Boland, Producer Rowland G. Edwards, who saw Miss Boland during the extended run of the play at the Playhouse the fater in New York, declared Saturday that he believed Miss Packer excelled Miss Boland in her interpretation. It is a role ideally suited to Miss Packer's unusual gifts.

The play tells the story of a whimsical, irritable "vinegar tree wife," who meets her first—and platonic—lover for the first time in 20 years. In the interim he has become a farmous artist and the lover of her sister. The wife's daughter also complicates matters by bringing a sophomore sweetheart home with her from college. And situation follows situation, spiced with some of the smartest dialog of the year, until at the end the wife learns a lesson in patience and contentment and turns again to her phlegmatic, but understanding husband.

for taking Time on the Air to tell 7,232 Dealers about Walter P. Chrysler's NEW PLYMOUTH . . .

BETWEEN 12 and 1 o'clock and 2 and 2:30 o'clock tomorrow, afternoon, the usual afternoon programs will not be broadcast over the stations of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

At those hours, Walter P. Chrysler will talk over the air to his 7,232 dealers throughout the United States. He will hold a nation-wide Business Conference to explain the details of a new Plymouth car, soon to be announced.

These dealers will be gathered in meetings in 25 cities throughout this country . . . and in Canadian cities as well. Primarily the broadcast is a business affair. Its purpose is to acquaint DeSoto, Dodge and Chrysler dealers with the story and specifications of the new Plymouth Automobile.

But because the radio is a public institution, and because we may be replacing programs which you hate to miss, we have attempted to make this meeting as interesting as possible.

Hearing Mr. Chrysler and other officials of the Chrysler Corporation explain the details of a new car may not be entertainment in the usual sense of the word. At the same time, sitting on the side-lines of a unique form of business meeting may be interesting.

So we say ... please accept our apologies for this intrusion on your radio time. And be assured of this: If you care to attend our first Radio Meeting, you are most cordially welcome! We'll be very glad to have you with us.

When the visitors from Atlanta Saturday saw the vast and happy multitude, and when they witnessed the parade of floats, and when they saw freshmen chasing live goats about the field, and when they saw 15 white rabbits who were too scared to run but who sat and munched grass-when they had seen all this and more they were ready to certify that it's a gift.

They wanted to give Hugh Smith a cup or a sweater. But he said he had 35 cups, wrist watches and trophies already, the gifts of organizations and individuals he has worked for. And so he wanted that sweater.

It will be size 44 and Hugh Smith will likely be so oud of it he will wear it to a formal dinner. Coach W. A. Alexander, of the Georgia Tech football team, is going to handle the presentation of the sweater. And Vanderbilt, of course, will present him with some trophy. Georgia Tech Squad Back at Work Today

Georgia Tech's football squad, uninjured in Saturday's game with Vanderbilt, termed one of the cleanest games they ever saw, will be given a light workout this afternoon as the team begins preparation for the Tulane game next Saturday. The Jackets played a splendid defensive game against Venderbilt but some adverse breaks and five kicks which were grounded near the Tech goal line kept Tech in her own territory on the defensive.

sonal and who publishes every intimacy without regard for human reticence. He has a secretary, played by Maureen O'Sullivan, who wishes her boss would get more intimate and forget his own reticence when they are alone together, but all her wishes prove fruitless. The boss has his mind on other things.

He is worried, for instance, about a kidnaping that has set the nation wild with anxiety and mad with rage at the perpetrators of the outrage. The columnist sets out to rescue the kidnaped girl. The racketeers double-cross him—take the money but don't deliver the girl. Then they offer to return their victim in return for immunity, guaranteed by the president himself. And the columnist has an interview with the president in the White House.

In the final event, the girl is shved, the head gangster is salin and, while the columnist is telling the story over the radio there is a sudden report from gangsters' guns and the news-fit paperman manages, as the last breath leaves his lips, to tell the story of his own murder over the air.

I If that doesn't satisfy, your desire for thrills, you are insatiable.

Jimmy Beers gets better and better each week at the big Fox organ. And there is a delightful comedy entitled "The Finishing Touch," with Skeets Gallagher providing the laughs.

Altogether four-star entertainment for anybody's money, this week at the set of the cliking in his new role.

Gleaned From the Notebook of Women's Division of Atlanta Community Chest

BY JANE HILLINGDON.

"She sat on a cushion and sewed a fine seam." A lustrous velvet cushion, of the blue of the sea, she sat on and made a seam with the finest of silken thread, stitching together folds of a gossamer fabric that fell in cloudy billows around her tiny feet, covering all but the toe of her And the slipper rested upon a rug of such coloring as died with the ancients and of intricate design fashioned with the clever, deft, dark-skinned fingers of the Arabs. And the white-fingered lady gazed, as she sewed, out upon a formal garden, pastel blossoms framed by dark green of the shrubbery, box-edged plots containing tall iris, blue forget-me-nots, tall delphinium.

And of a sudden into this quiet room, deep-curtained, soft-carpeted, picture-hung, deep, warm, and secure, rushed thousands of buzzing insects, pricking the rosy cheek, the soft white hands of the lady, maddening with the fury of distress. For let loose upon her security were all the stings of human suffering; families crying for food, children begging a crumb; the sick dying without benefit of medicine or care; old people, without shelter; cripples crawling without the aid of crutch to ease position. Without cessation they swarmed, buzzed, and stung; without cessation they wailed their woes of humanity; without cessation they raised whelps upon her fair skin, protected heretofore from ravages

Until of an instant, she flung away the gossamer fabric fashioned to clothe her fair body, she cast aside the velvet pillow, she stamped the tiny feet upon the rug of the magic weaver, she looked frightenedly upon the formal garden and she rushed for garments of contrition to shield her from the pest of the insects.

And the garment in which she arrayed herself that day was a con tribution to the Community Chest and unemployment relief of her city a contribution to the women's committee of the Chest that gave fell share of her bounty to ease hunger, despair, and the cold of her fellow

And now a different woman sits on the cushion of velvet. Her feet are solidly upon the carpet of Persia, and she looks sadly and serenely upon the garden-of-dreams-come-true while knitting warm sweaters for the cold in her community. And her blemished face is made more beautiful by a holy light that shines from the windows of her soul. Come alive all possessions . . . glorified forever!

MY DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: I want to take exception to your statement that the heart-hungry won-en are those that have been neglected by the men and that the heart-hunstatement that the heart-hungry women are those that have been neglected by the men and that the heart-hungry men are those that have been neglected by the women. The heart-hungry women are those that have been neglected by the women, The heart-hungry women are those that find out too late they have sold their right to love and to home for a mess of pottage—by flirting and squandering their emotions on any man they meet, to such an extent that a good 1 a.m will have nothing to do with them. The heart-hungry man is the one that loved and married a girl whom he thought loved him but found out she was only marrying him for what he could give her. A rich bachelor need never be lonely and in the dealth of the future with a new hope set in her heart. Men are in demand, as humiliating as the acknowledgement may be to a woman.

Apart from its misanthropic tone, which is lamentable, this letter contains some fallacious reasoning. Though some of the premises may be true, some of the conclusions are false. Yes, men are easier to fool than women and gentlemen to beat their wives or squeal as do women over their so-called happy homes. Fine husbands are good fathers, too much men and gentlemen to beat their wives or squeal as do women over their so-called defeated lives. Nine times out of ten women bring trouble on themselves by their greed for money and position—for which they give no return. Men take their medicine and pay the bills they made unwittingly, UNSIGNED.

ANSWER:

The above unsigned letter is evidently from the pen of a neglected or a neglectful husband, a letter written out of a bitter experience, out of a soured romance. The sentence he objects to doesn't imply that bachelors are the only men that neglect women. Indeed husbands neglect wives more shamelessly than any bachelor can relect women; for one is guilty of lect women; for one is guilty of sin against love and duty, the other guilty of sin against expediency. The writer is quite right in assuming that a bachelor need not be lonely and seldom is. When he gets lonely he looks for a wife and there is always some poor woman anxious for the good office. Behind him a voice spoke. "Tony."

"Tony."

He whipped round. Polly was standing in the doorway. There was a cup in her hand.

"I brought your tea, Tony." she said, in a small voice. "It was getting cold."

Tony was silent. A little gray tinge had come into his face. Then he stretched out his hand automatically. "Thanks," he said.

He stood looking at her. The silence stretched out interminably. Outside the public house down the street a wheezy piano-organ had begun to play. Omnibuses rumbled in the Brompton road. London was still going about its business.

INSURANCE PROVES DEPRESSION-PROOF

Assistant Secretary of Commerce Klein Points Out Its Stabilizing Effect During Past Three

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 .- Assistant Secretary of Commerce Julius Klein in a statement issued tonight declares that life insurance during the past three years "has proven an economic bulwark, a solid rock upon which we can build with assurance, for it has indeed proven itself a depression-proof institution." His statement in part is as follows:

"The long-hoped-for recovery stage of the depression seems at last to be at hand, if our statistical friends are at hand, if our statistical friends are to be believed. We must now call upon our sadly tried recuperative abilities to begin that final climb out of the abyss. Among the most valu-able of them is one which is all the more indispensable occause it is still largely unimpaired, and because it constitutes in sheer volume one of our mightiest reservoirs of economic power. I refer to life insurance.

significance in our whole national seconomy.

"We have this nationally accepted institution of life insurance as a mighty surety against the uncertainties of life and a substantial solace in the certainty of death. Naturally, 68,000,000 Americans can't be wrong.

"Here is a striking fact, as to the security of the insurance business in general. The efficiency and honesty of the companies themselves, plus this co-operative vigilance of state officials, account for the fact that in the last half century, with all of the ups and downs of business in that time, including the appalling crises of the '90's and of the 1930's, there has not been a single major failure in the inbeen a single major failure in the in-

But life aries of deceased policyholders approximately $950,000,000. But life insurance is far from being simply a solace to the bereaved family; it is no longer solely to be associated with death. Here is a striking figure indicating the values of insurance to the living policyholders: Last year they received from their companies no less than 1,627,000,000 in various forms; endowment policies, disability claims, on lapsed or surrendered policies, on health and accident claims, and in dividends that resulted, as 1 previously noted, from careful underwriting, prudent investments, and efficient administration.

"With foresight comparable to that of the Biblical seer, 68,000,000 Americans—more than half our entire population—have accumulated a reserve fund in excess of $20,000,000,000 now held by our life insurance companies that gives us protection totaling no less than $100,000,000,000. That prodigious sum has, in the last 30 years, risen from $8,500,000,000 in 1900, a 13-fold increase, as against a four-fold expansion in the same time of our national wealth and a population growth of less than one fold—62 per cent to be exact. There we have the measure of our increasing national confidence in this great institution, a measure of its gigantic significance in our whole national economy.

The basic industrial indexes, like steel production, power output, carloadings and retail buying, held their own fairly well. There was a steadier price tone toward the end of the week, but commodity index charts tilted slightly downward. With these cross currents at work.

With these cross currents at work, business executives again sought to reappraise the economic situation, and, probably the most hopeful point recorded was the evidence that the usual seasonal autumn bulge of industrial activity might this year show a longer tenure than ordinarily. Peak levels of carloadings and power production are being reached later in the year than usual, and compared with the 1930 and 1931 records, when seasonal influences made negligible headway against the depression, the performance to date has been accepted as distinctly encouraging.

Power Output at Peak.

For the week ended October 22 carloadings totaled 642,173 cars, a loss of 8,405 from the preceding week, but, with that exception, still the best showing for the year to date. The total was 16,437 cars above the total for the first week of October.

Electric power production for the same week went to a new 1932 peak level of 1,528,145,000 kilowatt hours, only 7.2 per cent under the corresponding 1931 figure. The previous week's figure was 9 per cent under the corresponding 1931 figure.

The latest weekly report on coal production also registered a gain. Bituminous production in the week ended October 15 averaged 1,315 tons daily against 1,209 the week before. A nominal gain was made in anthracits production which however didented of the production which however didented the production was made to the production and the product daily against 1,209 the week before. A nominal gain was made in anthracite production, which, however, did not reflect industrial consumption so much as home use.

Small Consumers Buying.

Steel production declined a shade to 19 per cent of capacity against 19 1-2 the week before, as estimated by Iron Age. Again, as in previous weeks, the industry was receiving the lion's share of its business from small consuming industries and not from the big ones—railroau, automobile, structural industries. JUDGE GRANBERY HAD EACH RE-CEIVED A MESSAGE FROM THE YEL LOW MY, TELLING THEM NOT TO HELP US BOYS CAPTURE HIM AND SAYING THAT HE KNEW EVERYTHING THAT HAPPENED AND EVERY WORD SPOKEN-

JUDGE GRANBERY, WE'RE AWFULLY SORRY THIS HAPPENED! BUT GIVE YOU MY WORD, AS CAPTAIN OF THIS CLUB, THAT WE WILL CATCH THIS YELLOW Y FOR YOU-

SUCH NONSENSE! THE YELLOW Y! SEES EVERYTHING! HEARS EVERYTHING! KNOWS IT ALL, HEH? WELL, IF THAT WERE TRUE, HE WOULD KNOW WHAT I AM TELLING YOU RIGHT NOW, WOULDN'T HE?

The Judge Is Convinced. -AND IF HE KNEW, HE WOULD PROVE IT, WOULDN'T HE? AND IF HE DID PROVE IT, DOCTOR WATERS, I WOULD SURELY TELL THESE BOYS TO GO AFTER HIM!

THE WORDS WERE HARDLY OUT OF THE JUDGE'S MOUTH WHEN BAM! AN ARROW STRUCK THE PORCH POST PINNING THE JUDGE'S COAT TAIL TO THE POST.

REAL ESTATE FOR RENT WALTER C. TAYLOR TO BE BURIED TODAY

Funeral rites for Walter C. Taylor, former city clerk and political leader of Atlanta for many years, who died Thursday while serving a five-year term in the chain gang for bribery, will be held at 9 o'clock this morning at the Sacred Heart church, into which he was recently inducted. The Rev. Father Michael J. Larkin will say requiem mass, and interment will take place in Oakland cemetery.

Walter Taylor, who died of a paralytic stroke, was for many years the most powerful political figure in the city. He was a former newspaperman and was one of the most widely known men in Georgia. Daily since his death hundreds have visited the chapel of Harry G. Poole to view, his body. He died a few hours before a pardon from the governor seemed assured.
